

Rally Goers in Easton Defend Reproductive Freedom

eastoncourier.news/2024/10/07/rally-goers-in-easton-defend-reproductive-freedom/

October 7, 2024

Governor Ned Lamont, Lt. Governor Susan Bysiewicz and U.S. Rep. Jim Himes were among those gathered at the Morehouse Pavilion on Oct. 5 to rally for reproductive rights.

The rally was organized by Beth Cliff of Easton who is challenging incumbent Republican state Rep. Tony Scott of Monroe for Connecticut's 112th District seat. The district represents Easton, Monroe and Trumbull.

Rally goers carrying placards joined a lineup of state and local Democratic elected officials and candidates running for office from upper Fairfield County and across the state, who spoke in defense of women's reproductive rights.

See our slideshow of the rally below. Press the arrows to advance the slideshow. Photos by Collin Moura

Gov. Ned Lamont addresses the crowd at Saturday's Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

Speakers and guests assemble at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

Attendees at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

The crowd who attended the Reproductive Rights Rally came with posters and messages. Photo by Collin Moura

Men and women of many ages attended the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

Attendees included supporters from Easton and across the state. Photo by Collin Moura

Attendees at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

State Rep. Anne Hughes at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

U.S. Rep. Jim Himes speaks at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

Easton Selectman Nicholas D'Addario at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Gov. Ned Lamont at Saturday's Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

Beth Cliff, Gov. Ned Lamont and Rob Blanchard gather at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

Beth Cliff of Easton, candidate for Connecticut's 112th District seat, speaks at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

Rob Blanchard, candidate for state Senate District 28 at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura

Lt. Gov. Susan Bysiewicz at the Reproductive Rights Rally. Photo by Collin Moura